AN INTERESTING LAW SUIT

Harry Colton Sues Judge for Half of an Attorney's Fee

A case of more than usual local interest was heard by Justice Fred Morgan this morning, who took the result under advisement. The title of the case is Harry Colton vs. George W. Green. Suit was brought by Colton to recover the half of a $75 fee paid Judge Strang by Green, who was co-receiver of the opera house block, which is owned by Colton and wife and the Mc Kennon estate. After Strang had been paid the fee, Green as receiver, he, so he testified this morning, returned half of it, or $37.50, to Judge Green as his law partner. Strang swore to the transaction and Green refused to deny it, although he claimed that he had forgotten it. Judge Morgan has the matter under advisement.

IT PAYS TO TRADE HERE.

It shall be our constant aim to so manage this business that you can always buy more for your dollar here than elsewhere. We ought to please you better with each succeeding season. We know you better. You've been teaching us for the past four years. The indisputable fact that this store is always the busiest store in Guthrie is significant. Prospective purchasers can readily see the reason after inspecting the facts and figures of this new fall stock now on exhibition and representing the results of months of earnest labor among the manufacturers and importers of the east and we wish to impress upon you the fact that, notwithstanding the general improvement prevalent here, you'll pay no exorbitant profits for styles. Big sales are what we want. Although you will find exclusiveness in many of our importations only the same small per cent profit will be asked as that upon cheaper and more ordinary goods. We unhesitatingly assure intending purchasers that nothing approaching our present showing and price making is impossible elsewhere in the city.
